Increase Engagement and Make the Most of Every Day

How Gaining Insight Into Your Top Talent Themes Helps You Develop Strategies to Build Engagement

By focusing on your own CliftonStrengths, you can connect better with your coworkers and students, which in turn, increases engagement. Here are some action items specifically for those looking to increase engagement to help facilitate better engagement and wellbeing.

Deliberative:
You are most comfortable in structured settings. Forge partnerships with others who offer clear expectations and have a knack for outlining a project from the infancy stages through completion. Suggest weekly touch-bases with your immediate project groups.

Individualization:
Tell your students and coworkers about the great talents you see in them, and encourage them to follow their dreams. Help them understand and maximize the power of their unique strengths, and help them find or create experiences and opportunities to shine.

Maximizer:
Explain to your students and coworkers why you don't spend a lot of time trying to fix problems. People who don't know you well might confuse your Maximizer talents with arrogance or think you don't care. Help them understand that endless difficulties and complications can sap your energy, and you are much better at noticing what is working and making the most of it.

Analytical:
Identify when you need to be more casual or intuitive.

Share Your Feedback: What Topics Do You Want Us to Address in 2020?
We want to know! What topics in education are you most interested in and what would you like to see in this newsletter in the future? Visit this page to share your thoughts with us.

We appreciate your feedback and look forward to a new year of developing engaging and thriving campuses across the U.S.

Follow for More Education Insights
For more Education Insights, you can join our private Facebook group, follow us on Twitter, and follow us on Instagram... and don't forget to tag us when you share campus success stories!